Area Call Numbers

Our Area Call service enables you to advertise a specific local landline number. That number can then be diverted to another UK landline number anywhere in the country, or even a mobile phone.

For example you can advertise in a London newspaper your allocated 0207 landline number, and divert that number to your office in Scotland. The reader of the paper will then get the impression that they are calling London when in fact they are calling your office in Scotland.

This helps give your business a local presence in any area, even where you don't have premises, and provides a local 'feel' to the advertisement. This can generate more calls to your office as the potential customers believe they are calling local company.

The service can be set up free of charge within 3 days and you will be charged a small per minute charge for each call that is diverted to your land line number. There is a small monthly rental.

This service is commonly used by plumbers , window installation companies, driving schools and cleaning companies to name just a few.

You will be able to choose your first 5 digits of the UK area call number.
